Stock Prices Go Lower in Short Session

Industrials Bear Brunt of the Reaction; Selling Pressure More General Than Earlier in Week. Traders who abandoned themselves from the floor yesterday to attend one or another of the football games missed a session that atoned for its brevity and only moderate volume by the clear-cut action of prices.

In Wall Street. No Light on North American Oil. Whether or not the Stock Exchange authorities were making any progress toward clearing up the mystery of the listing of North American Oil Company stock was not disclosed yesterday.

Bethlehem-Midvale Merger. The Street was not aroused by any great heights of enthusiasm by the announcement of the Bethlehem-Midvale merger plan, the action yesterday of the stocks of the companies involved furnishes any criterion.

Rock Island Pool. Wall Street heard yesterday of apparently reliable sources, although not confirmed, that the pool formed early last February in Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific common would dissolve.

Automobile Price Situation. Reduction in the price of the Cadillac car was viewed yesterday in the financial district as without relation to the general automobile price situation and is not expected to influence action by more than one or two other companies at most.

More Gold from England. The fallacy of the assumption that the shipment of gold from the British Treasury were specifically to meet the interest due the United States on the British war debt is demonstrated after the interest on the movement after the interest on the movement was completed.
